

What you do and what you need matters to us.

We are exporters of specialist ingredients directly out of South America.

ABOUT US

Since the 1980s, our family run businesses have been specialising in premium food products, giving our valued customers global supply options with exceptional service, value and quality standards. Today Tradelink serves their customers from offices in Buenos Aires, the heart of South America.

OUR PRODUCTS

We specialize in ancient grains and frozen fruit, mainly for the health, organic and gluten free food manufacturing industry. We make it easy for buyers to secure our products direct from the source, whilst saving them time and reducing the risks that come with cross-cultural and overseas buying.

TESTING

TradeLink gets every batch we export thoroughly tested by an external laboratory.

LOGISTICS

With 25 years' experience behind us, your product is in good hands.

UPDATES

We proactively update you on the status of your order through our weekly email updates.

GLOBAL

We use our knowledge on global supply to help you meet your challenges.

South America, the answer to those needing alternatives

The sunny weather and fertile soils of South America have always provided excellent growing conditions for outstanding produce, but local government policies and other barriers have affected our ability to be a serious player in this field, until recently. Now, drastic changes in government, added to the food scares in other regions has brought South America back into the playing field providing a much needed alternative.

New Zealand expats on the ground in South America

